M-Powered 7.4

Hello guys and gals! This may be a silly question, but for the life of me I cant figure out what i am doing wrong here. I am revisiting an old mix to do some tweaking. For some reason 3 of the audio tracks are grouped. I cant select one individually at all, yet when i open up my groups i have none active. Is there something that i am missing? My cursor covers all 3 tracks in the edit window.

Have you tried deleting the group from the group list? Also holding Control (mac) and adjusting some parameter (such as volume) isolates it from the group, does this work?

The thing is, I dont have any groups in the list??

I can individually select the tracks and adjust parameters, but cant edit them alone. They are somehow linked. When i go to make a selection in the waveform all 3 are selected.

Is your "All" group selected? You always have this group.

Have you tried creating a new session and using "Import Session Data" and then bringing those tracks into the new session? You would obviously want to make sure not to bring in in group data.

Good idea....didnt work though. I tried it and only imported session data. I have a feeling that linking has something to do with it. No groups have been created with this session yet. There are only 3 instrument tracks and 2 vocals. Its boggling me....lol

Without some more info about your setup, that's about all I can offer.

If you post some system details (as much info as possible) and take/post a screen shot of your edit window with the track list and groups list showing, I (we) might be able to offer some more help.
